The Dialogue of the Saviour is one of the New Testament apocrypha texts that was found within the Nag Hammadi library of predominantly Gnostic texts. The text appears only once in a single Coptic codex, and is heavily damaged. The surviving portions indicate that the general content is a dialogue with Jesus, in a similar manner to, and possibly based on, the Gospel of Thomas.

Dialogue of the Saviour - Wikipedia

Jesus the Master Communicator. From then on, our dialogue in the villages changed. We began to pattern our questions after the dialogue style of Jesus Himself. He already was our inspiration for using the mother tongue and for using parables. Jesus used Aramaic, the mother tongue of his audience, so they would understand.

The Dialogue Style of Jesus - Scriptures In Use

In the dialogue, Satan says he will cause anxiety, fear and panic by shutting down “business, schools, places of worship and sports events.” Jesus appears to respond by saying he will, among other things, bring “dinner back to the dinner table” and help “people slow down their lives and appreciate what really matters.”
